ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

Insurance occupies an important place in the complex modern world since risk, which can be insured , has increased enormously in every walk of life. This has led to growth in the insurance business and evolution of various types of insurance covers. The insurance sector acts as a moblizer of savings and a financial intermediary and is also a promoter of investment activities. It can play a significant role in the economic development of a country, while economic development itself can facilitate the growth of the insurance sector.

Insurance market in India is showing clear sign of expansion requiring insurers to be innovative in their approach towards achievement of sustainable growth in life and non life sector.
