The mega South Zone Inter University began on a note of jubilation with a massive rally taken out by the students of 35 universities from Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Andhra, Karnataka and Pondicherry. The two-hour procession showcasing the typical cultures of the regions started from the College Road and ended at the Convocation Auditorium of Alagappa University. The spectacular event hosted by Alagappa University under the aegis of the Association of Indian Universities (AIU) would conclude on 22nd December. The rally was flagged off by Prof.H.Gurumallesh Prabu, Registrar, Alagappa University in the presence of Prof. Ranjan kr. Kakati, AIU Observer, Gwahati University, Prof. T.R. Gurumoorthy, Syndicate Member, Alagappa University.

In the inaugural ceremony that followed the rally Dr. M. Jothi Basu, Organising Secretary of ALAGU FEST 2019, said, in his welcome address, that this major cultural fete hosted by Alagappa University is one of the landmark-happenings on the campus to be documented in its annals. 28 committees with more 100 members have been formed to help in the smooth conduct of this festival, he added.

Prof. H. Gurumallesh Prabu, who presided over the inaugural session, said that Alagappa University, besides offering importance to imparting quality education, gives importance to co-circular activities such as sports and cultural activities. He thanked the AIU for selecting Alagappa University as a venue for this youth festival. He stated that Alagappa University has obtained many awards and accolades at the national level and conducting this event has added another feather in its cap.

Prof.T.R.Gurumoorthy, Member of the Syndicate in his inaugural address emphasised the significance of fine arts which demanded great perfection and involvement on the part of the practitioners and that would stand them in good stead in their future careers too. Further he said that all performing artistes integrate people of different regions through their exemplary demonstration of fine arts.

Prof. Rajan Kr. Kakati, AIU Observer, Guwahati University, Guwahati, in his felicitation address, said that 1315 students are competing in various competitions such as classical and folk dance recitals, drama and mime competitions, elocution and debate etc. He added that the beautiful green, clean and vast Alagappa University Campus is highly suitable for conducting cultural festivals not only at the South Zone level but also at the National level. He lauded the hosts for organising everything in an excellent manner.

Dr.P.Eswaran, Coorganising Secretary, proposed a vote of thanks.
