Mindfulness

Mindfulness means maintaining a moment-by-moment awareness of our thoughts, feelings, bodily sensations, and the surrounding environment. It also involves acceptance, meaning that we pay finer attention to our thoughts and feelings, without judging them— without believing, for instance, that there's a "right" or "wrong" way to think or feel in a given moment. When we practise mindfulness, our thoughts tune into what we are sensing in the present moment rather than reheasing the past or imagining the future.

Neuro Science

The Society for Neuroscience defines Neuroscience as the study of the nervous system, including the brain, spinal cord, and networks of sensory nerve cells called neurons. It is an interdisciplinary field, as it integrates several disciplines, including Psychology, Biology, Chemistry, and Physics. In studying the nervous system, the field adds to a body of knowledge about human thought, emotion, and behaviour – the main area of expertise for those working in Psychology- especially, the field of Neuropsychology.
