The National Education Day was celebrated today (11.11.2017) to commemorate the birth anniversary of MaulanaAbul Kalam Azad , the first Education Minister of free India at Alagappa University, Karaikudi under the auspices of the College of Education and Department of Education.

Presiding over the function, Prof. S. Subbiah, Vice-Chancellor, stated that "incalculable is the merit of creating an enlightened society by imparting quality and value – based education." Education, he averred, should help individuals face any challenge in real life.The objective of celebrating the National Education Day is to promote and strengthen the Educational system of the country in every aspect. He noted that the development of any county is intrinsically linked with the literacy growth and in this respect India has all along been concentrating on this vital aspect. Citing statistics about higher education growth in India, he said that our country occupies the third place in the world in offering higher education after the USA and China. At the national level, the Tamil Nadu tops the list with 43.6%.

Prof. P. Kanniappan, Former Vice-Chancellor of Alagappa University, and currently Chairman of Agni School of Business, in his special address stressed the significance of the three-fold functions of higher education -- teaching, research andextension. He emphasized the importance of the third component "extension". By involving in extension activities, teachers can contribute to the welfare of society which in turn gives them sustenance. Quality-consciousness is permeating every sphere of life todayand "quality-culture should permeate into educational field too", he quipped. MaulanaAbul Kalam Azad, the visionary educational architect of modern India, could visualize the importance of skill-based education which is given due importance by both the State and Central Governments today which alone could provide employment opportunities to the teeming millions. Describing Alagappa University as a performing University, he lauded the present Vice-Chancellor and his team for securing 3.64 CGPA in the 4 point scale in the third cycle of NAAC Accreditation which is the highest point secured by a State University in India. He exhorted the University community to strive in all earnestness to secure 4 out of 4in the next NAAC accreditation in order to realize the University's motto "excellence in action".

Prof. P. Sivakumar, Dean Faculty of Education offered felicitation. Earlier Dr. A.Balu, Principal i/c, Alagappa University College of Education, welcomed the gathering and Dr. G.Kalaiyarasan, Prof. and Head i/c Department of Education, proposed a vote of thanks.
