KARAIKUDI

Date: 21.08.2017

The Institute of Company Secretaries of India (ICSI) and the Faculty of Management and the Department of Corporate Secretaryship of Alagappa University, Karaikudi, jointly organized Teachers' Congruence on "Empowering Teachers to Prepare Professionals of Tomorrow" on21.8.2017 in the Convocation Seminar Hall of the University.

Prof. S. Subbiah, Vice-Chancellor, Alagappa University, in his Presidential Address, said that teachers are the architects of a nation and they have greater responsibility than other sections of society in nation-building activities. He added that the corporate sector has witnessed innumerable changes and challenges on account of the application of technology. Hence, there is an imperative need on the part of the teachers to update their knowledge in tune with the changing times and they must be well-versed about changes being effected by the government from time-to-time. Besides classroom teaching, teachers are expected to give more and current information relevant to the subjects they teach. For instance, a teacher handling English should have thorough knowledge not only of English literature but also adequate knowledge of other related literatures for comparison which would make the subject interesting to students and it would widen their knowledge.

Thiru CS. Ganapathi GM, Chairman – SIRC of the ICSI, Chennai, in his Special Address, announced that an ICSI Study Centre would be commenced at Alagappa University to impart professional education and for enlightening the learners on the latest changes in the corporate sector. In India, there are about 11 lakh companies, but there are only 50,000 company secretaries. Hence, there is an immense potential for employment of bright students. And there is going to be a great demand for company secretary professionals in the corporate sector. He referred to the MoU entered into between the ICSI and the Alagappa University regarding the continuance of the ICSI Signature Award to the topper of B.Com. programme offered in affiliated colleges of this University and that would be given in the ensuing University convocation. He appealed to the college teachers to participate in the Faculty Development Programmes (FDPs) organized by the University frequently not only for energizing themselves but also for motivating the students in their respective colleges.

Prof. V. Balachandran, Registrar i/c., Alagappa University, in his Thematic Address, said that the words "empowerment and professional" being strong, the teachers are expected to update their knowledge in the current scenario of far-reaching changes, knowledge explosion and technological revolution. As the corporate sector is very dynamic and vibrant, teachers are required to have thorough and expert knowledge in various corporate laws such as Companies Act – 2013 and Amendments, Foreign Exchange Management Act (FEMA), Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code - 2016, Information and Technology Act, Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR), Goods and Services Tax (GST), so as to enlighten their students to make them professionals suitable for profitable employment in various companies / industries. This has become indispensable on account of a spate of new changes and challenges being witnessed by the corporate sector not only at the national level but also at the global level.

Dr. P. Subas Chandra Bose, Syndicate Member, Alagappa University, in his Felicitation Address, said that there is a need to introduce skill based education for the student community so as to make them employable in the present competitive scenario. Further, he added that teachers are expected to become competent in a specialized field rather than trying to have a broad based knowledge on various subjects. For effective and successful conduct of any programme, he strongly advocated both Team Management and Time Management.

In the Technical Session, Mr. CS. Prakash from Chennai delivered a Special Lecture on "Recent Changes in Companies Act – 2013", Mr. CS. Thirunavukkarasu from Madurai spoke on "Corporate Social Responsibility". Further, Prof. V. Balachandran, delivered a lecture on "Goods and Services Tax" and CS. S. Kumar Rajan, spoke on "Career on Company Secretaryship".

Prof. V. Manickavasagam, Dean, Faculty of Management, welcomed the gathering. Prof. TR. Gurumoorthy, Prof. M. Senthil, Prof. G. Jayabal and other members from Faculty of Management, teachers from various colleges affiliated to Alagappa University and P.G. teachers of Commerce from Sivagangai and Ramanathapuram Districts attended the programme. About 250 members participated.
